

WRITING COMPLETE ANSWERS

Answers written in incomplete sentences are like songs with missing notes! They just don't sound right! Follow the steps below to be sure that you're never "off beat"!

- 1) Read the question.

What are the four regions of California?

- 2) Cross out what you don't need (i.e.: the question words and the question mark).

~~What are the four regions of California?~~

- 3) Write what's left of the question. Move words around if necessary.

are the four regions of California changes to

The four regions of California are

- 4) Complete the answer. Be sure to end with the correct punctuation mark.

The four regions of California are the Central Valley, the desert, the mountains, and the Pacific Coast.
